Band Preservation Donates Instruments & Music Library to Local School

Kissimmee, FL – Band Preservation is presenting a gift of multiple cornets, clarinets, a saxophone, drum set and a music library to the band program at Liberty High School, directed by Matthew Vaadi, in Osceola County. Band Preservation is excited to give this gift which is just one of the ways the organization strives to make a difference by providing students in need with the musical instruments necessary for them to fully embrace their music education despite financial hardship.

Transforming the wellbeing of others through music and generosity is truly “Where Music and Philanthropy Meet” which is the mission of Band Preservation. It was founded by Bennett Harmon and became a reality in 2012 when many talented educators and artists came together to give their time and expertise through music. Their philanthropy is dedicated to all genres: from classical to concert band; Dixieland to 40’s swing and more; and continues to preserve the techniques and styles through education and fellowship. Concerts ticket sales from their musical groups which include the Orlando Big Band, the Ramblers and the Peacock Wind Ensemble have helped to provide over 200 instruments to date.

Since music stimulates and inspires, these musical groups also perform in the community at area performing arts centers, veteran’s ceremonies and at senior centers where the past is revived with tales from the musical selections. You can help support the mission and enjoy the sounds of the 20 piece Orlando Big Band at their upcoming holiday shows on Saturday, December 5 at the Wayne Densch Performing Arts Center and Tuesday, December 22 at the Athens Theatre in Deland.
